HELP THE TORNADO SUFFERERS

NEWS-BULLETIN AND MOKENA BUSINESS MEN RAISING RELIEF FUND AND CLOTHING SUPPLY

The greatest disaster in the history of Illinois swept across the southern part of the state a week ago today, leaving death and suffering in its wake. Thousands of dollars have already been subscribed to the relief fund.

People living in cities and villages in the path of the tornado have so far been quite well taken care of according to reports, but the farmers have not fared so well. Many of them are absolutely destitute and will have to start all over again, as everything they had has been blown away or destroyed.

THE NEWS-BULLETIN is co-operating with the business men of Mokena to raise a fund for the needy farmers and to gather a supply of clothing etc., Anyone wishing to send money to the relief work can send same to either Mr. Richard Hensel of Mokena or the News-Bulletin office and same will be forwarded to WLS.

A collection of clothes will also be taken up and anyone wishing to give what ever clothing, bedding, etc., which they can spare are urged to do so. All such articles can be left at the Cooper & Hostert garage in Mokena and when a good supply has been received it will be shipped direct to the stricken area. Nothing is too big or too small. Make your donations of money or clothing at once.

A detailed list of the donors will be published in the News-Bulletin.

New Lenox Caucus Puts Up A New Town Ticket

For many years very little interest has been taken in town caucuses or elections in New Lenox township, but this spring there has been a big change all the way around.

An independent ticket has sprung up within the last few weeks and at the caucus held last Saturday at Grange Hall the candidates of this party buried the old regulars in a landslide.

Fred Francis who was nominated on the Independent ticket received 303 votes and G. J. D. Starman a candidate on the regular ticket received 133 votes. Mr. Starman has been supervisor of New Lenox township for over thirty years and was one of the most influential members of the county board.

Henry Stein was chosen as a candidate for the office of school trustee unanimously. James Bowen was nominated to the office of justice of the peace unanimously. John Spuehler ran against John C. Urch, the present justice and received 265 votes while Mr. Urch received 50 votes. George Kennedy was unanimously nominated for the office of constable.

This caucus was termed "a regular housecleaning affair" and practically all of the successful nominees are young men.

Christianity Not

Identified With

Creed Says Pastor

Rev. A. R. Mangus at the Mokena M. E. Church Sunday morning in his sermon on "What makes a Person Christian", showed that the great trouble is that too many people have no real conception of what the church is. In reviewing the history of the early church he showed where it had sold out to politics and charged that even to this day it is still doing the same thing.

Rev. Mr. Mangus said that being a Christian is not any of the following three things: Merely a church membership; an intellectual ascend to creed; a part of our civilization. Being a Christian in the true sense of the word is: embodying the teachings of the Jesus Christ of history, not the Christ of creeds or dogmas.

The world war has torn away many of the frills and trimmings which have hedged in the church for centuries. Today the church has a different meaning than it had before 1914. The church can only be a service and a help to humanity as long as it carries out the teachings of the Master and does not become allied with a lot of man made theories and fads.

Rev. Mangus showed that the Christianity of our Western civilization is standing condemned now in the eyes of the Eastern world. Before the world war our missionaries were sent to the Orient and preached Christ and the love of the Christians for one another, but when the great World War came on, the people of the Orient began to wonder what had become of all the flowery things the missionaries had been trying to teach them about Christianity and now they have changed their expressions of, "See how the Christians love one another" to the phrase, "O see how the Christians hate one another."

ORGANIZE NEW CHOIR AT TINLEY M. E. CHURCH

Rev. Flynn, pastor of the Tinley M. E. church announces that a new choir has been organized and much interest is shown.

The Clearing House WHERE OUR TAXES GO.

Its fight against the Texas tick, tuberculosis in cattle, hog cholera and its important part in sanitary improvement of milk supply has been worth the cost of all the civic departments.

The Bureau of Plant Industry has had most interesting work. It has ransacked the world for new crops for our agriculturists. It has brought dates from Egypt, wild peaches from China, Durum wheat from Russia, Millet from Siberia, and many other plants from every region of the earth.

In addition to this, it has carried forward a process of cross breeding of plants which has proved of inestimable economic value to the American people.

The Bureau of Soils has made detailed maps of soil conditions in the more important areas of the country.

The United States is the third largest Forest grower in the world being outranked by Russia and Canada only. The National Forest of the U. S. number more than 200,000,000 of acres, and contains more than 500,000,000,000 feet of merchantable lumber watched over by more than 2,000 trained men.

The Bureau of Entomology wages an unrelenting fight against the Hessian fly, the joint worm, the gypsy moth, the brown tail moth, the codling moth, the orange thrip, the house fly and the mosquito.

The Bureau known as the Biological Survey employs itself in the investigations concerning the economic relations of birds and mammals to our farmers and stock men. It cooperates with the Forest Service in the destruction of the chipmunk, snake and the ground squirrel.

The Good Roads Bureau has accomplished much in construction and maintenance of roads.

More than 2,000,000 attend annually the institutes held jointly by the National and State agricultural departments.

The work of the weather bureau is fully appreciated.

The Dept. of Commerce performs a variety of purely business functions.

The coast and Geodetic survey, Lighthouse service, Steam boat inspection are of utmost importance.

The Bureau of Standards known as the Bureau of Accuracy, Bureau of the Census, Bureau of Fisheries also come under the dept. of Commerce.

The Dept. of Labor is the newest addition to the Cabinet. It has its Bureau of Labor statistics, a Womens Bureau, a Children's Bureau, Bureau of Immigration and a Bureau of Naturalization.

The Smithsonian Institute, Civil service commission, Interstate commerce commission, Federal trade commission. The shipping board are subordinate and independent departments, each rendering special service.

$5,136,000,000, a trifle more than half our taxes, go to municipal affairs.

And what do these items include? Take Chicago as typical of every incorporated city in the United States. The amounts of the items vary, the proportions remain the same. For example: the cost of operating Chicago for 1924 was $170,951,013.24. Of this amount $70,000,000 goes to schools. $13,000,000 to police, $6,000,000 to fire protection and more than one hundred and ten departments absorb the remainder.

The demand for more and better service is constantly made and experience is daily demonstrating some new function that can be better performed by our great central agency, The Government, than

Hundreds Attend Last Rites of Chas. Corp at New Lenox

Funeral services for the late Charles Corp of New Lenox were held Sunday afternoon from the New Lenox M. E. church. Rev. A. L. Brown of the Marley Community church officiating.

The church was filled with the many neighbors and friends who wished to pay their final tribute of honor to him with whom they had been in daily contact and who was held in high esteem.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful. The deceased was a member of the American Crusaders and this order had sent a beautiful floral piece of a huge fiery cross. He was also a member of the New Lenox camp of the M. W. A., The Crusaders had charge of the rites at the grave, interment taking place in the Maplewood cemetery.

Charles Corp was born in Somersetshire, England March 24, 1878. He came to this country with his parents when he was 16 years of age and settled in New Lenox where he has resided ever since.

On February 7, 1903 he was united in marriage with Miss Mary Nelson. To this union three children were born, one dying in infancy.

Mr. Corp had been ailing for a number of years. Following a serious operation at the Silver Cross hospital, Joliet, where he passed away on March 20th at the age of 47 years, 11 months and 20 days. He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Lillian and Helen, two sisters, Mrs. Mabel Bridge of Elwood and Mrs. Lillie Borden of Manhattan, six brothers, Robert and Charles of Chicago, and Ted Archie, Hubert and Hubert of New Lenox.

823 DEAD, 2,990 HURT BY TORNADO IN FIVE STATES

Some Towns in Illinois and Indiana Totally Destroyed by Twister—Victims Being Aided by Relief Workers.

Chicago.—Following the organization of relief in the tornado-stricken area of Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Kentucky and Tennessee, it was disclosed that about 823 persons had been killed and 2,990 injured. Several towns were completely obliterated and thousands were made homeless.

The Illinois total of deaths is 645, Indiana 100, Missouri 27, Kentucky 18 and Tennessee about 33.

Following the wind in many cities and towns, fire broke out. In some cases the relief work already had been organized so well that the conflagrations were under control in a short time. In others scores of maimed and dead were burned almost beyond recognition.

Illinois Suffers Most.

Murphysboro, West Frankfort and De Soto were the Illinois cities that suffered most from the terrific wind blast. Gorham also suffered heavily in dead and wounded. In Indiana, Griffin, Princeton and Owensville were hardest hit while in Missouri, Biehle suffered about ten deaths. Gallatin, Tenn., reported that about thirty had been killed there.

In a number of towns lighting systems were out of order and darkness hampered the workers at night. National Guard troops are protecting these places from possible looting. Pullman cars have arrived in many of the villages to provide sleeping places for the thousands of homeless while tent villages are arising rapidly.

In a few cities where there had been happiness, prosperity, and future, the tornado blasted all. In others it showed fiendish eccentricity by leveling and blackening portions, while sparing the rest.

Towns Swept Away.

Nearly half of Princeton, Ind., was smitten. A sister city, Griffin, was virtually carried away. De Soto, Ill., with 500 people, lost its existence. A neighbor, Gorham, of 300 souls, was wiped out. Murphysboro, Ill., lost nearly three square miles of its business and residential sections. Other hamlets are yet cut off from telling their story.

Property Losses in Millions.

Those in charge speak in millions when asked to estimate material losses. The brief dispatches read: "100,000 in southwestern Kentucky," "$2,000,000 at Princeton," "$6,000,000 in southern Illinois," "$100,000 in Missouri." At the other scenes no one yet ventures to estimate.

The tornado took its toll over a territory of 300 miles in five hours and within the same period of time outside aid was covering that distance to carry help and comfort to survivors. The Red Cross rushed supplies from St. Louis. Chicago offered $500,000. The Illinois legislature appropriated a like amount and the Missouri legislature $25,000.

Toll of Dead Mounting.

In southern Illinois, where terrific havoc was wrought in four towns, Murphysboro, West Frankfort, De Soto and Gorham, all in coal mining territory within a twenty-five mile radius of Carbondale, the relief center, the toll of dead and injured continued to mount as additional bodies were taken from the ruins. The death list was above the 500 mark, while between 2,000 and 3,000 were injured and thousands were homeless. Relief workers said the loss of life might reach 1,000. The property damage in the area was estimated at $7,000,000.

Grim Story in Morgue.

It was at the morgue of southern Illinois' largest city where the story of West Frankfort's tragedy was briefly but grimly told. Ninety-one bodies lay stretched in long rows, and the first twenty-one were the forms of little children, ranging from eighteen months to four years in age. They lay in a pitiful row on a long table, faces uncovered so some heart-broken mother or father of perhaps an older brother or sister might claim them. One by one the little bodies were tagged with a family name as identifications were made.

At a mine known as No. 18 twelve men went to their deaths when the plant above ground was demolished.

Terrible was the destruction vented on Murphysboro.

Makes Kindling Wood of Homes.

More than half of it now is little more than kindling wood and smoldering ruins of hundreds of homes.

Hours of battering by field artillery could do no more to a town than the tornado did to the stricken area of Murphysboro. Brick buildings went with the weaker frames. Thirty-seven children were crushed to death in the collapse of two school buildings. Two square miles which contained 500 residences and 100 business houses were leveled.

One of the buildings destroyed was a new $85,000 Baptist church, where a funeral was being held when the tornado struck. Another was a new $267,000 addition to the high school.

Chief of Police Joe Bostora found the body of his daughter in these ruins. The dry grass on some of the lawns was actually uprooted.

Looting began early at West Frankfort and guards fired several shots in the darkness at prowlers in the ruins, but none were wounded or captured.

West Frankfort is without water, except that hauled in. Thirteen persons are said to have burned to death when they fled to the basement of a Murphysboro restaurant. A woman and her small twins were found side by side, dead, in a field near De Soto.

There the disaster fell largely on persons of limited means, some out of work because of the shut down of coal fields. Many women and children and a score of babies appeared on the death lists. Entire families were wiped out. One man, searching through a morgue for his wife and three children, found the bodies of his babies side by side in one room, his wife in another.

Identify Dead by Jewelry.

Many of the bodies were mangled, scarred or burned, some beyond recognition. Identification in many instances had to be made by rings or other personal belongings.

The government, Red Cross, state troops, private institutions and individuals combined in the huge task of caring for the injured, giving shelter and hunting bodies.

In Murphysboro, where 147 bodies have been recovered, 8,000 persons, or two-thirds of the population, were homeless. One hundred city blocks were demolished there and the power plant wrecked. Seventeen students were killed in the destruction of school buildings.

Woman Blown into Treetop.

Forty-five bodies had been recovered at De Soto, which virtually was obliterated. More than a dozen other Illinois towns reported from one to forty deaths. At De Soto a woman with a baby in her arms was blown to the top of a tree, where she clung until the storm passed, and then descended virtually without injury.

Soldiers are everywhere on duty in the area of suffering and citizens have organized themselves and are digging in the ruins of their homes. Some who probe the wreckage are seeking to retrieve a little part of what were once their belongings.

Witnesses said the towns in the storm's path were wrecked in a few minutes. One described the deadly visitor as a greenish black funnel, slanting at an angle of 45 degrees. A deluge of hail followed in its path.

While the storm started in Missouri shortly after one o'clock, it did not reach Illinois until around three o'clock, and it was nearly dusk before it took its last savage blow in Indiana.

West Frankfort in Ruins.

Working under lights from automobiles and from bonfires built from wrecked framework of houses, hundreds of rescuers were searching for bodies of victims of the tornado which swept West Frankfort, Ill.

Public buildings, lodge halls, and churches were converted into temporary hospitals and morgues. Eighty-five bodies already have been recovered. The injured number 500, many of whom will die.

The town is a picture of ruin. Scores of buildings are demolished and the streets are strewn with wreckage. Tangled wires and splintered trees litter the streets. Naked walls from which the rest of the structure has been torn stand out as grim silhouettes.

And all of this thrown into fantastic contortions by the flames from a dozen fires which sprung up here and there among the ruins. Fire departments from surrounding towns aided the local department in checking the flames.

Fire Follows Fire.

As they put down one blaze another sprang up in another section. And through it all the firemen were constantly called on to leave their work and help in rescue.

The picture after the storm was one of pathetic suffering. Dead and injured were strewn about the streets, and among them ran frantic men and women, or crying children, some almost unclothed, seeking their loved ones.

Relief Work in Indiana.

In Indiana relief measures also were going forward rapidly under the direction of Gov. Ed. Jackson. Of five towns struck in that state, Griffin, a Posey county village, suffered most. With 47 bodies recovered, it was believed that the death list might mount to 125. Griffin virtually was wiped out, and systematic work at rescue was held up for a time because few were left uninjured in the village. Military lines have been drawn about the entire area.

At Princeton, which counted 20 dead, the 2,000,000 shops of the Southern railway were destroyed, throwing 400 persons out of work. Most of the homes destroyed were those of workmen.

It was announced from Washington that national headquarters of the Red Cross, with its chief, President Coolidge, taking the initiative, had set in motion its entire machinery of mercy to the injured and homeless.

Sees Children Die in School.

Centra, Ill.—A dramatic eye-witness story of the death of a score or more of children in the school at De Soto and of the virtual destruction of the town was told here by Max Burton. Burton is telegraph operator for the Illinois Central at Tamaroa, a few miles from De Soto, and on receiving a flash of the destruction he motored there, being the first outsider to arrive, and found the town a mass of debris, with dead and injured strewn in the streets.

All Houses Destroyed.

"It seemed to me there was not an entire house in the town," Burton said.

823 Killed, 2,990

Hurt in Tornado

Reports from towns affected by the tornado announce 823 dead and 2,990 injured, as follows:

| ILLINOIS       | Dead | Injured |
|----------------|------|---------|
| Murphysboro    | 210  | 500     |
| West Frankfort | 107  | 500     |
| De Soto        | 118  | 200     |
| Gorham         | 90   | 200     |

"People were hurrying out on the road, north and south, with a few belongings clutched in their arms, more for protection against the storm than anything else, so far as I could see.

"I went directly to the schoolhouse, after running and walking two and a half miles, and the first thing I saw there was the bodies of about twenty little children laid out on mattresses and blankets. There was no one there to claim them, so I thought the people whom I had seen on the road were their parents, but I learned later that the children's parents had been killed or injured, and those who were not dead were being hurried by automobile, special relief train and ambulances to hospitals in Carbondale and Duquoin.

"The principal of the school was there trying to identify the bodies of the pupils. He also was worrying over the safety of two girl teachers who were unaccounted for. The principal was bloody from his injuries and staggered in his walk. He had barely escaped with his life.

Carried Bodies From Ruins.

"About twenty-five bodies of school children were piled up just outside the playgrounds, and a search was being made for others in the ruins. While I stood there they took some of the bodies away and brought others out of the building, which by then was a mass of smoldering ruins, fire having destroyed what the cyclone did not.

"The hallway of the school had caved in, and what few rescuers were on hand were trying to uncover other bodies of pupils and locate the two missing teachers.

"I walked out beyond the school grounds and near the city limits I saw the bodies of two babies, apparently about six or eight months old. They were dead and their baby clothes had been torn from them.

Sees People Fleeing Town.

"Every tree that was left standing and every fence had garments, bedclothes and household goods hurled against the west side of them. This indicated the storm traveled eastward. I saw furniture, automobile tops and clothing scattered everywhere, and saw many people fleeing from the town with hardly any garments.

"The business section was practically destroyed by fire and wind and nearly every home was flat on the ground.

"I saw about forty automobiles piled up in one big pile and thought this was a garage that had been struck.

"Then I saw another car just outside of town that looked like the people were trying to get away, but had failed. The car had blown from the road over to the railroad right of way and was wrecked, but I could find no bodies.

Firemen Aid in Rescue Work.

"I offered what help I could, and they told me the bodies were first taken south to Carbondale, but that the hospital there was soon filled and they then took the injured to the Duquoin hospital, north of De Soto.

"Automobiles were stretched along the hard roads north and south of De Soto for nearly three miles, a short time after the cyclone.

"The fire departments of Duquoin and Carbondale were sent to De Soto, but they were unable to do anything and the firemen pitched in to do rescue work. I could see them digging the bodies out of the schoolhouse and other buildings.

"I met two girls on the road on my way back to Tamaroa. Their faces were bleeding and their clothes were torn. One of them said: 'How did you get out?' and the other answered, 'I climbed out of the window,' and said, 'how did you get out?' The first said, 'I don't know.' They were wandering up the road and seemed not to know where they were going."

Worse Than Cross-Word

The note reproduced below was left on the desk of a social settlement worker in Cleveland. It is intended to be English. It is a message which was taken down just as it sounded to this foreigner, who did not know how to write English correctly. Here it is:

"Mrs. Goltmeus gallop ans sezet suns jukum hom pliz galerop sez no mer howlyt agoubi sez galerop."

The meaning of this is: "Mrs. Goltmeus called up, and says that soon as you come (jukum) home please call her up. Says no matter how late it's going to be, says call her up."—Christian Evangelist.

HOW TWO WOMEN AVOIDED OPERATIONS

The Following Letters of Mrs. Thurston and Mrs. Beard Carry an Encouraging Message to Other Sick Women

MRS. ETHEL THURSTON
324 N. PINE STREET, LIMA, OHIO

Lima, Ohio.—"I want to tell you how your medicine has helped me. For weeks I suffered with awful pains from inflammation and I was in such misery that I had to bend double to get relief. I could not be touched or jarred, had awful pain all over my abdomen and could not touch my feet to the floor. It was impossible for me to straighten up and the pains never ceased. I took treatments for some time and finally was told I would have to have an operation. I do not believe in operations, and I had read so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I told my husband I would try it before I gave up. I soon began to feel that it was doing me good. The awful misery began to leave me, also the backache. I have a good appetite and am gaining in weight. Taking the medicine was the best thing I ever did. I feel like it has saved my life and I do not hesitate to say so to my friends. At least it saved me from a dreaded operation and I am still taking it. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about the medicine."

—Mrs. ETHEL THURSTON, 324 North Pine Street, Lima, Ohio.

Mrs. Beard's Letter
Eddy, Texas.—"I will write you a few words, thinking it will do some one else good. Two doctors said I would have to be operated on because for nearly twelve months I suffered from a weakness from which I could get no relief. I was restless and nervous and was not able to walk across the house. They said it was the Change of Life. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the newspapers, and as I could not get any help from doctors I thought I would give that a trial. I began with the liquid and it helped me some, then you advised me to take the tablet form and I began to improve rapidly. I have gained in weight from 105 to 170 pounds. I recommend it to all women with this trouble."

"WHO'S THERE?"

SYNOPSIS.—Nurses in the Southern hospital at Avonmouth are angered by the insolent treatment accorded them by Dr. John Lancaster, head of the institution, and there is a general feeling of unrest, into which Joan Wentworth, probationary nurse, is drawn. Doctor Lancaster is performing a difficult operation, for which he has won fame. Joan, with other nurses, is in attendance. She is upset, through no fault of her own, and makes a trivial blunder at a critical moment. The patient dies and Doctor Lancaster accuses her of clumsiness. She is suspended, the action meaning the end of her hope of a career as a nurse. Without relatives or friends, and desperate, Joan, urged by her landlady, goes to Doctor Lancaster's office to ask him to overlook her blunder and reinstate her. She overhears a violent altercation between Doctor Lancaster and other men who does not see. Joan is struck by the favorable change in the appearance and demeanor of the doctor, recalling that at times in the hospital he has been gentle and thoughtful and at others supercilious and bullying. He tells her he can do nothing for her at the hospital, but offers her a position in a nursing institution in the country, telling her she can be of "great assistance" to him. A man named Myers demands she tell him what the doctor had said to her. She denies him the information, and he covertly threatens her. At the institution, which is owned by Doctor Lancaster, Joan finds Myers. He tells her he is the secretary. She instinctively dislikes and fears him. The only patient at the institution is a Mrs. Dana, demented but harmless. Joan is vaguely uneasy, feeling that there is some mystery about the place. Doctor Lancaster arrives. Joan accuses him of deceiving her, declaring her intention of leaving. He tells her he is the patient who needs her, saying he wants help in a "big fight," but makes no further explanation. She decides to stay. Evidently Doctor Lancaster is afraid of Myers. Joan discovers that the doctor is a victim of the morphine habit. Joan takes charge of him, helping him to overcome temporarily his craving for the drug. Myers accuses her of "meddling," but she refuses to leave or to give up her care of Lancaster. Mrs. Fraser, the matron, admits all at the institution she is afraid of Myers, but will not say why. She begs Joan to "save the doctor." Joan in a measure succeeds in freeing Lancaster from his craving for drugs.

"It is not what Doctor Lancaster says," answered Joan. "It is what I say. Mrs. Fraser, please give me the storeroom key."

The woman, looking askance at Myers, let her hand slip down toward the bunch at her side.

"The key, please," repeated Joan, and received it. Quickly she looked the door and put the key in the pocket of her uniform.

"Now," she said, "I want you all to understand this situation. I am employed by Doctor Lancaster. I am under orders not to go until the month is ended. I am in charge of him. Until he is responsible for his actions I shall remain in charge, under Doctor Jenkins. Doctor Jenkins, is it your order that Doctor Lancaster is to receive a whole dose of morphine every few hours, of the amount he has been taking?"

"Why, Miss Wentworth, I never ordered that," protested Jenkins. "You see, Miss Wentworth—"

"Until you do," interposed Joan bluntly. "I shall continue the treatment as I learned it in Doctor Lancaster's hospital at Avonmouth. And if the storeroom is opened by anyone but myself I shall take legal action to protect Doctor Lancaster's interests."

"Miss Wentworth!" cried Myers. "You are making a tragedy where none exists. Nobody wants to harm the doctor. We all have one sole thought, to help him. Don't we, doctor?" he continued, addressing Lancaster.

"You are all—very kind to me," Lancaster mumbled.

"There, you see," said Myers, turning toward Joan again. "There may exist differences of opinion," he continued in a facile manner, "and maybe I've expressed myself too forcibly. But we're all at one in wishing the doctor to get well as quickly as he can."

He was almost fawning now, but Joan remained inflexible. She knew that if she relaxed from the nervous tension that was upholding her she would become hysterical.

The group dispersed. Myers followed the girl out upon the veranda and stood for a long time near the door, watching her as she sat at the farther end, trying to compose herself. At last he came up to her.

"See here, Miss Wentworth," he began impetuously. "I've come to you twice and spoken fairly to you. Maybe you see now that you would have been wiser to have met me in the same spirit. Come, now, are we to work together as friends or not?"

"I have no objection," answered Joan, "but my duty concerns nobody but the doctor."

"You mean you won't co-operate with me in saving him from himself?" He looked at her with sullen challenge in his eyes.

"I do," said Joan.

Myers thrust his hands into his pockets. "Right!" he said. "Three times is enough. I understand. And that's the last you'll hear from me about it."

He went away, and Joan sat staring out across the darkening hills. How had she managed to fight this blind battle of hers to a successful issue? She did not know; but, whatever the hold might be that Myers had over Lancaster, she felt that Myers himself was in dread of its discovery.

Presently she saw the matron come cautiously out of the house and hurry toward her.

"How did you do it, Miss Wentworth?" she asked in awe. "You did what none of us would have dared to do—not me, nor Doctor Jenkins."

"Why not?" asked Joan. "Mrs. Fraser, of whom are you afraid? And Doctor Lancaster? It is not of that man Myers, whom he could send about his business at any time when he found strength of will. Who is it?"

"O, Miss Wentworth, I don't know," the matron sobbed. "But save the doctor! O, do save the doctor from that man who is trying to kill him!"

Chapter VII

Joan had had supper with Lancaster, and it was night, and once more the light was raging.

She had sat on the veranda with him, had talked with him, had seen the better soul of the man rise to the surface as he struggled with the morphine devil; then she had given him his half dose again, and, as his strength revived and the agony departed, she had seen the facile, lying spirit enter into him.

He was lying, wrapped in his dressing gown, upon his bed, and she sat at his side, at grips with the devil in him that clamored for its victim's body, that it might possess it entirely, as surely a devil as any spirit of evil, though its shrine was a little glass bottle holding a few drops of fluid.

She was fighting for Lancaster, fighting for the better Lancaster again, and he was writhing in torment and pleading with her to go, to leave him to his fate, since the suffering was intolerable and subjection preferable.

There was an hour of hideous battle, but somehow she managed to keep him quiet till midnight. And, seated beside him, watching him, Joan came to the conclusion that this was one of those strange cases of double personality of which she had read in medical books. It was impossible to reconcile this Lancaster in any way with the man whom she had seen mo-period. Every three hours is my time, and now that I am on half-doses—you remember what Jenkins said this morning. You must go slowly with a confirmed drug-user like myself.

"Stop! Don't listen to me!" he added suddenly. "You can trust me, Miss Wentworth. I'm going to fight this out, and win."

"You are winning," answered Joan, bending over him. "Don't forget that Say 'I am winning' whenever the pain seems uncontrollable and your will seems gone. It won't last long. Doctor Lancaster, you are your own self at this moment, and nothing can harm you. Fight the good fight!"

He caught her hand and carried it to his lips. "Miss Wentworth, you are my good angel!" he cried. "I secured the services of an angel unawares," he added, looking at her with that pathetic humor which went straight to her heart. "I want to win for your sake. But why are you taking so much trouble for a worthless old fellow like me?"

"Don't flatter yourself that it is all for you, Doctor Lancaster. Perhaps I may want to save the most distinguished surgeon in the South."

At her words he started; he stared at her, and then fell back upon the pillow, hiding his face. Joan turned away. Again she had touched some hidden spring of memory; what it was she could not know, but it was evident that she had wounded him to the quick.

Perhaps it was the contrast between the office he held and the man he had become. Perhaps it was the knowledge of his secret bondage which had broken him down at last and driven him back to the institute, and Myers.

"Miss Wentworth, I want you to lock my door and take away the key," he said. "I may have a secret supply somewhere."

"I don't think you have," answered Joan. "You have none in this room, have you?"

"No."

"I believe that. And, anyway, I am going to trust you. That is part of your fight. I am going to trust you till six."

He said good night in a low tone and turned away. Joan went up to her room. She lay down, but did not undress. She was afraid, and she admitted that she was afraid, and nothing but Lancaster's desperate need of her would have kept her an hour longer in the institute. But she was exhausted from the day, and soon she was asleep.

She slept that sleep which brings no recreation for the faded body or the overwrought mind. All the while she was back with Lancaster in his room below, in spirit. She knew that, as he had said, the drug bondage was only the climax of his difficulties. What had there been that had wrecked the man? Jenkins' hint at stolen funds? Of one thing she was sure: Lancaster, sunken as he was, was incapable of dishonesty. No, she must have placed a wrong construction on Jenkins' words.

And in her sleep her brain went on puzzling over the problem. Only her body was quiescent, and it lay wearily in the bed like some chained captive.

But suddenly the urgent summons of the brain shook from it the trammels of sleep. Joan listened intently, awake upon the instant, as some wild creature of the woods that senses danger. Somebody was coming along the corridor.

The footfalls were so soft and stealthy that she might have thought she was dreaming but for the sense of imminent danger, the knowledge of some malevolent design. The steps stopped and began again, the merest touches of sound against the silence of night, the lightest patter of bare feet outside the door.

Then the door began to open.

There was no moon, and the faint starlight outside only seemed to render darker the obscurity within. Yet, through the darkness Joan knew that a hand lay on the door jamb, and that a figure watched her across the room.

She leaped from her bed. "Who's there?" she called, in tones that seemed to shock the silence.

She could see nothing now, and she dared not turn aside to light her lamp. She knew that the figure was crouching somewhere. She heard the softest breathing, but could not locate it in the room. She felt the atmosphere of evil that surrounded her. She started to cross the room, groping, with arms outstretched. Then she found the intruder and flung herself upon it.

Her left hand closed about a wrist, supple and strong. Her right hand held another hand. They wrestled in the darkness, their bodies tense but motionless, only the hands and wrist muscles at strife. Not a sound came from their lips.

Joan thought it was a woman's hands she held. Her fingers sought the menace in the closed fists. The left hand of the intruder was empty; but in the right was a jagged piece of a broken tumbler that thudded to the floor.

So a woman is the mystery! Now why is she so bent on revenge?

Solution of Last Week's Puzzle.

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

When the correct letters are placed in the white spaces this puzzle will spell words both vertically and horizontally. The first letter in each word is indicated by a number, which refers to the definition listed below the puzzle. Thus No. 1 under the column headed "horizontal" defines a word which will fill the white spaces up to the first black square to the right, and a number under "vertical" defines a word which will fill the white squares to the next black one below. No letters go in the black spaces. All words used are dictionary words, except proper names. Abbreviations, slang, initials, technical terms and obsolete forms are indicated in the definitions.

Lesson for March 29

CLOSING PERIOD OF CHRIST'S MINISTRY—REVIEW

DEVOTIONAL READING—Rev. 1:9, 18.

GOLDEN TEXT—"Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and today and forever"—Heb. 13:8.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How Friends Cared for Jesus and Paul.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Helping the Missionaries by Our Gifts.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Living Lessons From the Quarter.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Closing Scenes in Christ's Life.

The lessons of the quarter have been so rich and full that perhaps the best method of review will be to summarize the outstanding teachings of the quarter. The following suggestions are offered:

Lesson I—The so-called triumphal entry was the official presentation of Jesus of Nazareth to the Jewish nation as their Messiah. He was the predicted king coming in the name of the Lord (Psa. 118:26).

Lesson II—Coming judgment is absolutely certain. The judgment portrayed in this lesson is that of the nations living on the earth when Jesus comes. The judgment pronounced—reward or doom—will be on the ground of the attitude of the nations towards Jesus as expressed in their treatment of His brethren, the Jews.

Lesson III—Before Jesus went to the cross He instituted a memorial of His broken body and shed blood. This should be gratefully and strictly observed by believers until Christ come again.

Lesson IV—Many are the trials through which the believer must pass as he goes through this life. The sure cure for "heart trouble" is the assurance that Jesus has gone to prepare a place in His Father's house, and will come again and receive His disciples to Himself.

Lesson V—Jesus is the true vine and believers are the branches. Abiding in Him will result in fruitfulness, success in prayer, fellowship in the love-life of God, fullness of joy and love-life like that of God.

Lesson VI—It is not the purpose of God that Christians should be taken out of the world at once when they believe on Christ because the world needs their influence and testimony. Christ needs them as His representatives and they need the trials of the world to strengthen the grace of God in their hearts. Those whom God has given to Christ are eternally secure even though they must pass through great trials.

Lesson VII—The agony of Gethsemane was due to the fact that Jesus was bearing the burden of the sins of the world.

Lesson VIII—The heart of this lesson is that Christians should be obedient to civil authority because human government has been ordained of God. The more loyal the believer is to Jesus Christ, the more loyal he will be to the government constituted authority (This lesson has no logical connection with the others of the quarter and should be omitted where time is limited).

Lesson IX—Jesus Christ gave clear proof that He was the Messiah promised in the Scriptures, but the wicked nation rejected Him and chose a murderer instead. Both Pilate and the nation went down under the guilt of the rejection of Christ.

Lesson X—Christ on the cross is the supreme expression of unselfish love, a revelation of the moral nature of the world, and stands as an exhibition of a cross section of the world in any generation.

Lesson XI—Christ's resurrection is an absolute certainty. This unquestioned fact certifies that He is the divine Son through whom we get eternal life.

Lesson XII—The various appearances of Jesus Christ after His burial demonstrate the reality of His resurrection, confirm the truthfulness of the Scriptures and reveal Him as not only the supreme and grand center of the Scriptures, but the supreme Interpreter of them.

Goodness Outshines Genius

Man is created for virtue. It is his supreme endowment coupled with his capacity for affiance in God. Ever and anon a trumpet sounds. From the hidden battlements of Eternity, summoning him to noble living. If he refuses to obey the summons he sinks in the scale of being. He surrenders manhood to accept animalism. The degree in which a man is striving after virtue and obedient to the law of duty determines his real value. "Goodness," says Emerson, "outshines genius, as the sun makes the electric light cast a shadow."—Rev. R. P. Downes, LL. D.

God's Best Messages

God sends His best messages to people who are faithful and busy.—Presbyterian of the South

Song of the Stars

All the stars of heaven sing the faith of Bethlehem.—Western Christian Advocate.

Modesty and humility are the sobriety of the mind; temperance and chastity are the sobriety of the body.—Winchcote.

World Reads, and Asks "What's Next?"

How time and events verify the adage that truth is, indeed, stranger than fiction!

We travel under the seas and high above the clouds. We talk through the air and send pictures via space. Things that would have sent anyone who proposed them years ago to death for witchcraft are the commonplace of everyday life, familiar to every boy and girl, observes the Philadelphia Bulletin.

Two men with only a leg between them commit a burglary. A locomotive kills a huge eagle. A dog with a wooden leg goes through a fire with only the loss of the leg. The tones of a harmonica bring memory back to a wandering mind that had lost its identity. A thief promises to give back $100,000 of $500,000 he stole. A woman's car plunges 150 feet and she lives. A horse hurts an opera singer on the stage. And a man who built a $7,000,000 business in twenty years gives it to his employees.

These are only the oddities of a moment, the flashes of fancy on the screen of life's daily moving picture in the United States. 'Tis a strange world, my masters. And it's all in the day's news.

Proud University

Helsingfors university, Finland, enjoys the following privileges: (1) No taxes, payments or fees; (2) the free importation for its collections of objects of natural history, art and antiquity, also ethnographic and other objects; (3) the exclusive right to publish for sale or distribution among the people, directly or indirectly, almanacs and calendars in Finnish and Swedish; (4) the privilege of keeping a chemist's shop of its own in Helsingfors; (5) the privilege of getting, free of cost, copies of any printed matter appearing in Finland; (6) the privilege of getting, free of cost, one silver and one brass copy of any medal coined in Finland and one copy of any new coin or printed banknote.

Old Chestnuts Enjoyed

More than 23 years ago Sally Reid, a farmer's daughter living near Richmond, W. Va., gathered a box of chestnuts and sent them to Henry Holt, a farmer boy living near Gauley Bridge. Recently the girl, who is now Mrs. Henry Holt, found the chestnuts hidden away in an old trunk owned by her husband. They were well preserved and good tasting.

No Pews in Cathedral

The prevailing style of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine is French-Gothic. One of the characteristic features is that there will be no pews, but movable benches will be used instead, as in the old cathedrals. There will be a seating capacity of 7,000, with standing accommodations for several thousand more.

COUGHS

Quick Way to Stop Them

Persistent, racking coughing, which by rapidly weakening your entire system lays you open to more dangerous infections, can be checked often with the first dose of that old-time tried and proved remedy—Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey. And there's a reason. Doctors say there is nothing like pine-tar to quickly loosen and remove the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing, while the honey both gives a pleasant taste and helps soothe the irritation. It is often astonishing how quickly this combination relieves the stubbornest cough.

But be sure you get the original Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar Honey, and no substitute. Dr. Bell's has been known for over a quarter of a century as the best. It is scientifically compounded of just the right proportions of pine-tar, honey and other quick-acting healing ingredients which the best doctors have found to aid in quick relief. Contains no opiates or other harmful drugs, so can be given even to young children—fine for spasmodic croup. If you want the best, a medicine that often relieves the severest cough overnight, make sure you get Dr. Bell's. Only 30c at any good druggist's.

by private enterprise. The Parks of Chicago number 820,444 acres and the city has 32,501 miles of boulevards.

Our States expend $1,450,000,000 and this is largely going to elaborate road building and other building projects.

In early days roads and bridges were built and owned by private individuals and corporations. Every day practical experience has found it was not practical, and so the States and the Federal Government build the roads and make them free.

Although our country is the most intelligent and the most humane on earth, we still have many shortcomings.

We have a very unjust system of taxation which we must correct and we must introduce a standard system of accounting for city state and nation.

TINLEY PARK

BACHELORS GROVE LUTH. CHURCH.

Rev. Wm. Greve, Pastor.

Regular German services are held every Sunday at 10 o'clock. Topic of Lenten address for next Sunday, "Certainly this was a Righteous Man and the Son of God." English services will be conducted next Sunday evening at 7:30 P.M. Subject of sermon based on Is. 53: 4 & 5. "The Vicarious Atonement of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ." Please come.

A birthday party that will long be remembered took place on St. Patrick's Day at the home of the Rev. Wm. Greve. Each person brought a pound of something good to eat, and before long the kitchen resembled a grocery store. The teacher, Mr. Schaefer, made an appropriate address, telling the pastor what each article represented in his calling. The pastor in a few heartfelt words expressed his appreciation of the many gifts. In all 28 families were present, totalling an even 100 guests. 31 children enlivened the crowd with their joyous laughter and plays. Late in the evening a lunch was prepared of the good eatables that the visiting guests had brought along, where upon all departing wishing their pastor many happy returns.

A great number of relatives and friends celebrated Mrs. Hy. Schilling's birthday last Friday. Bunco was played and other games. At midnight a fine lunch was served and all present had an enjoyable time.

A birthday party took place in honor of Miss Laura Fahrtenholz at the home of her parents on Sunday evening. A great number of friends gathered and all enjoyed the party.

DEPICTS LIFE IN AMERICAN HOME

A picture no parent should fail to see and which shows that no family is happy unless there is a perfect understanding between parents and children, especially between father and son.

Wm. Woodbine Latimer, Jr., 9 year old son of the town's most prominent citizen, is misunderstood by his father, a middle aged man, extremely dignified and reserved, whose life day by day followed the same monotonous routine.

Forever the strict disciplinarian he fails to understand his playful, fun loving and truly human boy and makes his son's life almost unbearable as he endeavors to mold him into a being like himself.

Nothing that the boy does is right. He is always in "hot water", and finally decides to run away.

On his way to seek adventure he falls in with three tramps, who learning that he is the son of Bank-

THE FRIENDLINESS OF MODERN BANKING

By WILLIAM E. KNOX
President American Bankers Association

Until a few years ago savings banks were extremely austere institutions. They were founded to do the kindest thing in the world, that is, to take care of the savings of poor people, but they did it in a most repellent way. They did not extend to their banking business any of the courtesies or any of the amenities of life.

Whatever they simply took the money, did the depositor the favor of taking it, and gave it back to him when he wanted it. And then they considered their full duty done.

The tellers and clerks treated the depositors as though they were entirely beneath them. I myself, heard a depositor, an old Irishwoman, say to a teller who had been snappish with her: "Then you better keep a civil tongue in your head. It is the likes of me that keeps the likes of you in your place." In that brief and caustic and well-deserved comment she had summed up the whole situation in a nutshell.

There was nothing warm, nothing cordial, but as the years went by those who worked at the windows got on friendly and kindly relations with the people coming to the windows. Here and there some man got so close to the people that they began to tell him their personal affairs and ask for his advice, and of late years the banks, too, have been stressing the human element. They have struck a better way of approaching people.

They have taken steps, for instance, to try to get as close as they can to the foreign element. That is one of the great problems in all the large er Latimer, see an opportunity to hold him for ransom. He is rescued by Dr. Mason, the town's most popular young physician, who takes him home.

Despite the pleadings of his mother and Dr. Mason, the father refuses to forgive his son. Latimer intends to punish the boy for his leavings taking.

Here the mother rebels. The father's unrelenting and exacting attitude is breaking the boy's spirit. To save him she leaves the Latimer home takes the boy with her and settles in a homey cottage in another section of the town.

Latimer finds that he cannot live without the boy and his mother. He pleads forgiveness and invites his mother to return. She leaves the decision to Bill, who, called upon to solve the most momentous problem of his young life decides that it was their duty to return.

This separation had been the means of bringing Latimer to his senses and a realization that the spirit of boyhood cannot be repressed. See it at the Marley Community church on March 27th.

Good Printing

THE kind of printing that pays dividends is the kind you should have. Pale, muddy, poorly arranged printed matter is worse than none. The quality of your business is often judged by the quality of your stationery—inferior printing gives an impression of cheapness that is hard to overcome, while good printing carries with it a desirable suggestion of quality.

We produce only Quality Printing. Whether you want an inexpensive handbill or a letterhead in colors, if you order it from us you will be sure of getting good work. We have the equipment and the "know how" that enables us to get out really good printing—printing that impresses people with the good taste of its users. That is the only kind of printing that

Pays

Most Difficult Things in Life.

A Danish paper recently asked the readers to state what is the hardest thing in the world to do. It received many more replies than it had anticipated, some of which are as follows: To be a toe dancer if you weigh 200 pounds, to get back borrowed books, to trim one's nails while wearing boxing gloves. Some of the readers took the question seriously and answered it seriously. One replied that to live without telling a lie was the most difficult of all.

manufacturing and business centers. A great mass of foreigners come here and get together in groups, but they do not get any real touch of Americanism. They are just as Jewish and just as Italian ten or twenty years after they come here as they were the day they came, because nobody appears to take any particular interest in them. But when an institution like a savings bank begins to take an interest in the problems of the people, to let them feel that here is a group of people engaged in a business that is willing to listen to them, their troubles, their trials, is willing to advise them, willing to steer them straight, willing to be sort of Big Brother to them, I do not think there is any better Americanization work than that being done.

That is the kind of work the progressive savings bank is starting on—telling people that if they will come to them with their troubles they will be glad to give them the best disinterested advice, to do things for them free, that otherwise they would be charged for by somebody. They are willing to advise them when they get a little more money than the savings bank can take care of, what they can invest in, or in some cases what not to invest in.

If the savings and commercial banks all over the country adopt that particular attitude toward our foreign fellow-citizens, it will give them an entirely different view of Americanism. It is this changed attitude that has resulted in the tremendous growth of deposits that have taken place in the savings banks since the war. There has been a different spirit breathed into the relations between the depositors and the men at the other side of the counter.

ILLINOIS WOMAN FARMER HAS BEST OF SEED CORN IN AMERICA.

Illinois is still the home of the best corn in America. This was demonstrated at the National Seed Corn Show at Chicago when the ear of seed corn entered by Mrs. Elsie M. Paluska, of Waverly, in Morgan county, was adjudged the best ear in America and awarded the thousand dollars offered by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation as an achievement reward. The selection was made by ten nationally known seed corn authorities.

MOKENA

Margaret Schneckpeper of Mokena received honorable mention in the recent contest conducted among the boys and girls living in rural districts by H. C. Biggar, farm and market editor of Radio Station WLS of the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, according to word from Chicago.

The subject of the contest, which was received with enthusiasm by the youngsters, was "How I Made Money on Poultry in 1924."

Margaret told that she had ties out of more than 27,000 ears from 45 states entered in the show and was pronounced 100 percent after tests.

A story exceeding fiction in many respects was revealed when Mrs. Paluska came to claim her prize. It marked the 5th anniversary of her wedding, and the money came just in time to meet the last installment on their farm, she said. When they were married, there was only $25 between her husband and herself; now they have a 160 acre farm in the southern part of the state.

The winning ear was discovered by mistake, according to Mrs. Paluska. She and her husband were in the corn cribs one day, when the eagle eye of the woman farmer spied the champion ear resting in an open crib. She took it into the house, placed it in the family book case and when shortly afterward she heard of the National Seed Corn Show, she lost no time in sending it in.

Tests of the entries from the state showed that only 72 per cent of the seed corn of Illinois was fit for use. The judging of the Illinois corn was in the capable hands of Prof. J. C. Hackleman of the University of Illinois, and Will Webb, of the Illinois Seed Improvement Association.

geese for her project in the Illinois Project Club last year. She had very good success with them, raising four geese to maturity.

Mrs. Milton Krapp and daughter returned from Silver Cross hospital Tuesday morning.

Cooper and Hostert has added another new feature to their line of business, it being a wrecking derrick.

Mrs. R. Wiers is spending a few weeks with relatives in Oak Park. Mrs. Harrison Haley and children of Kempton, Ill., are visiting with relatives in Mokena and Marley.

Arthur, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Hurley is ill.

Mrs. John Hatch entertained the members of the 500 club at her home last Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Oswald saw the "Passion Play" in Chicago Monday evening.

W often hear about freaks of storms and freaks of nature, but the best freak of nature story we have heard for a long time is said to have occurred at the John Frisch place when a goose is said to have laid two eggs at one time.

MOVES CHURCH

The old St. John church in Mokena is being moved this week, by Krapp Bros. Work on it is being pushed.
